

Diversified Credit Portfolio of ETFs, Series 29

Opportunities in Fixed-Income

Guggenheim believes that some of the best long-term return opportunities in the fixed-income markets can be found in credit sensitive securities and moving assets away from U.S. Treasury securities. Unlike U.S. Treasury bonds, certain credit sensitive securities can potentially help investors increase their income while also reducing their exposure to interest rate increases.

To provide exposure to these credit sensitive securities, Guggenheim created the Diversified Credit Portfolio of ETFs. The chart below highlights a few of the current opportunities Guggenheim sees in credit sensitive asset classes.

Investment Objective

The Diversified Credit Portfolio of ETFs, Series 29 (Trust) seeks to provide current income by investing in a diversified portfolio of exchange-traded funds (ETFs).

Key Considerations

- Importance of Duration: In selecting securities for the portfolio, Guggenheim seeks to adjust duration exposure along the yield curve based on our macro-economic forecasts, inflation outlook, and Fed policy views — seeking to optimize earned interest while protecting against potential rate moves that would impact current bond prices.
- Credit Spread Awareness: Guggenheim seeks to identify credit spread investment opportunities that may compensate for risk factors relevant to the current macro environment. The portfolio consists of credit ETFs diversified across major fixed-income sectors that span various maturities and credit qualities.
- Monthly Income: Unlevered credit exposure that seeks to provide monthly income.

² The Historical Annual Dividend Distribution (HADD) is as of the day prior to trust deposit and subject to change. There is no guarantee the issuers of the securities included in the Trust will declare dividends or distributions in the future. The HADD of the securities included in the Trust is for illustrative purposes only and is not indicative of the Trust's distribution rate. The HADD is the weighted average of the trailing twelve-month distributions paid by the securities included in the portfolio and is reduced to account for the effects of fees and expenses, which will be incurred when investing in the Trust. The HADD will vary due to certain factors that may include, but are not limited to, a change in the dividends paid by issuers, a change in Trust expenses or the sale or maturity of securities in the portfolio. ³ Fee/Wrap-based accounts will not be assessed the deferred sales charge for eligible purchases and must purchase units with a Fee-based CUSIP. For unit prices other than $10, percentage of the C&D fee will vary. ⁴ The deferred sales charge (DSC) is a fixed amount and will be deducted in monthly installments on the last business day commencing March 2027 and ending May 2027 or upon early redemption. For unit prices other than $10, percentages of C&D fees, and DSCs will vary but in no event will the maximum sales charge (S.C.) exceed the total S.C. Early redemption of units will still cause payment of the DSC. However, an initial sales charge, which is equal to the difference between the maximum S.C. and the sum of any remaining deferred S.C. charges and C&D, will be charged if the price paid for units exceeds $10 per unit or you purchase units after the first DSC payment has been assessed. ⁵ Estimated Organization Expenses are assessed on a fixed dollar amount per unit basis, therefore, actual organization costs may be more or less than estimates. For additional information on organizational costs and potential caps, please see the prospectus. ⁶ Trust operating expenses include fees for administration, bookkeeping, the trustee, sponsor, and evaluator. This expense also includes an estimated Trust operating expense based upon an estimated trust size. If the Trust does not reach or falls below the estimated size, the actual amount of the operating expenses may exceed the amount reflected. Please see "Fees and Expenses" in the Trusts prospectus for additional information.

The Diversified Credit Portfolio of ETFs, Series 29 is a Unit Investment Trust.

RISK CONSIDERATIONS: As with all investments, you may lose some or all of your investment in the Trust. No assurance can be given that the Trust's investment objective will be achieved. The Trust also might not perform as well as you expect. This can happen for reasons such as these: • Securities prices can be volatile. The value of your investment may fall over time. Market values of the Trust's securities fluctuate in response to various factors affecting an issuer. Events such as war, terrorism, natural and environmental disasters, public health emergencies are impossible to predict and may adversely affect the economy, which may negatively impact the performance of the Trust and the Trust's ability to achieve its investment objectives. • The Trust invests in shares of ETFs which are subject to various risks, including management's ability to meet the fund's investment objective. Shares of ETFs may trade at a premium or discount from their net asset value (NAV) in the secondary market and the Trust may receive a price that is less than the ETF's NAV. • The ETFs are subject to annual fees and expenses, including a management fee. Unitholders of the Trust will bear these fees in addition to the fees and expenses of the Trust. • The Trust is subject to an ETF's index correlation risk. • The value of the fixed-income securities in the ETFs will generally fall if interest rates, in general, rise. Typically, fixed-income securities with longer periods before maturity are more sensitive to interest rate changes. • An ETF or an issuer of securities held by an ETF may be unwilling or unable to make principal payments and/or to declare distributions in the future, may call a security before its stated maturity, or may reduce the level of distributions declared or may suspend distributions. This may result in a reduction in the value of your units. • At any point in time, the financial condition of an ETF or an issuer of securities held by an ETF may worsen, resulting in a reduction in the value of your units. • Economic conditions may lead to limited liquidity and greater volatility. • Certain ETFs held by the Trust invest in: – Securities that are rated below investment-grade ("junk" bonds") and/or rated investment-grade by only one rating agency, which are speculative and subject to greater market and credit risks, and the risk of nonpayment or default is higher; – Certain ETFs held by the Trust invest in preferred securities. Preferred securities are typically subordinated to bonds and other debt instruments in a company's capital structure in terms of priority to corporate income and therefore will be subject to greater risk than those debt instruments. In addition, preferred securities are subject to other risks, such as having no or limited voting rights, being subject to special redemption rights, changing tax treatments and possibly being issued by companies in heavily regulated industries; – Foreign securities, which will be more volatile than U.S. securities due to such factors as adverse economic, currency, political, social or regulatory developments in a country; – Securities issued by companies headquartered or incorporated in countries considered to be emerging markets, which may be exposed to greater volatility and market risk, such as investment and trading limitations, liquidity concerns, delays and disruptions in settlement transactions, political uncertainties and dependence on international trade and development assistance; – Securities whose value may be dependent on currency exchange rates. The U.S. dollar value of these securities may vary with fluctuations in foreign exchange rates which can fluctuate widely due to various economic and political reasons. • Certain ETFs held by the Trust may be non-diversified. A non-diversified fund may invest a larger portion of its assets in the securities of a limited number of issuers. Poor performance by any one of these issuers would adversely affect the fund to a greater extent than a more broadly diversified fund. • The Trust may be susceptible to potential risks through breaches in cybersecurity. • The Trust is subject to risks arising from various operational factors and their service providers. Although the Trust seeks to reduce operational risks through controls and procedures, there is no way to completely protect against such risks. Please see the Trust prospectus for more complete risk information.
